Microtox: How To Get Glass Skin for Summer

Here at DRMR, we are always on the lookout for the newest treatments and procedures that allow you to be your best you, by enhancing your overall well-being and confidence. The newest most popular beauty trend for this summer is this innovative approach, originating from South Korea, which is the latest frontier in 'natural' aesthetics. The overall result is smoother-looking skin that brings you one step closer to that much-coveted 'glass' look.

While Botox works on deeper muscles to smooth out wrinkles from movement, Microtox takes a different path, concentrating on enhancing skin quality and texture without changing your natural expressions.

This results in a more even complexion and a relaxed appearance, giving you an airbrushed finish with a radiant glow, unlike the standard Botox injections. These remarkable outcomes typically manifest within a few days after the procedure, often fully evident by the 10th to 14th day.

This targeted approach allows for smoother-looking skin and addresses specific concerns such as flushing, enlarged pores, and excess sweating. Giving a refreshed, rejuvenated result without sacrificing your natural expressions.

Whether you're looking to achieve a radiant, smooth complexion or address specific skin concerns, this will ensure you get to look and feel your best.
